

Let's Get A Pup!

'Let's get a pup!' said Kate.
'What, a brand-new one?' said a now wide-awake Mum.
'With the wrapping still on?' added her breathless dad.
'Pups don't come wrapped,' replied Kate.
'I know they don't,' said Dad. 'It's just a joke.'

Mum looked in the paper.
'It must be small,' said Kate.
'And cute,' said Dad.
'And get all excited,' said Kate.
'And run round in circles,' said Dad.
'Hmm,' said Mum. 'LOOK!'

THE RESCUE CENTRE

The centre for dogs without a home
The centre for dogs all alone

With their breakfast uneaten, they dressed and left immediately.

At the Rescue Centre they found plenty of dogs without a home, and lots of dogs all alone. They found ... big dogs, small dogs, sniffers and sleepers, wire-haired, short-haired, scratchers and leapers.

They found fighters and biters, growlers and snarlers, short dogs, dogs long and thin, and dogs with their cheeks sucked in.

Then they saw ... Dave.

Dave was so excited he came out sideways. He barked twice, water flew off his tongue and he turned a complete circle in the air. He was small. He was cute. He was brand-new. Dave climbed right over the top of Kate, who briefly wore him like a hat.

'He's all that we want,' said Kate.
'All that we came for,' said Mum.
'We'll take him,' said Dad.

1. In the second paragraph, Mum said 'Hmm' because she
- (A) could not hear what Dad was saying.
 - (B) wanted a different kind of pet.
 - (C) had read something that interested her.
 - (D) did not want to go to the Rescue Centre.
2. Where did Mum see the information about the Rescue Centre?
- (A) in a letter
 - (B) on a poster
 - (C) on a website
 - (D) in the paper
3. The word 'immediately' means
- (A) at once.
 - (B) in a hurry.
 - (C) without talking.
 - (D) without thinking.
4. Which of the following statements is TRUE?
- (A) When the family first saw Dave, he was having a drink of water.
 - (B) When the family first saw Dave, he was growling at the other dogs.
 - (C) When the family first saw Dave, he was full of energy.
 - (D) When the family first saw Dave, he was unfriendly.
5. Which of the following lines from the story makes it clear that the family has decided to keep Dave?
- (A) 'LOOK!'
 - (B) Then they saw ... Dave.
 - (C) He was brand-new.
 - (D) 'We'll take him'

Recipes

Hunger-zapping honey and soy lamb kebabs

These kebabs taste as good as they look!

Makes 8 kebabs

Ask an adult to help you.

Instructions

Ingredients

- 300 g lamb cut into cubes
- ½ pineapple cut into cubes
- 1 zucchini (courgette), thickly sliced
- 16 cherry tomatoes
- 3 tablespoons honey
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- salad, to serve

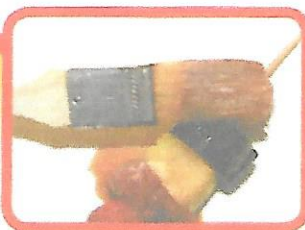

Equipment

- knife
- chopping board
- measuring spoons
- 8 skewers (soaked in water for 15 minutes)
- bowls
- pastry brush

1. Carefully push a piece of lamb onto a skewer, followed by a piece of pineapple, a piece of zucchini and a cherry tomato. Add more pieces (in the same order) until the skewer is full. Repeat this with the other skewers to form kebabs.

2. To make the sauce for the kebabs, mix together the honey and soy sauce in a bowl. Brush this sauce over the kebabs using the pastry brush.

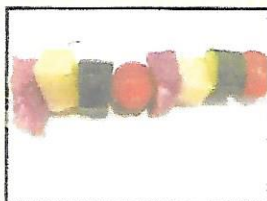

3. Turn on the grill to high. Once the grill is hot, place the kebabs under the grill and cook for 7 minutes, turning once. Brush more sauce onto the kebabs while they are cooking. Serve with salad.

It's now time to chew and chomp your way through the kebabs!

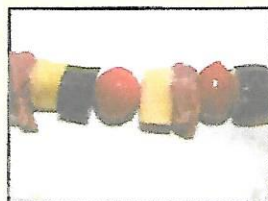

6. What are 'ingredients'?

- (A) pictures to work from
- (B) instructions to work from
- (C) food to be used for cooking
- (D) equipment used to cook with

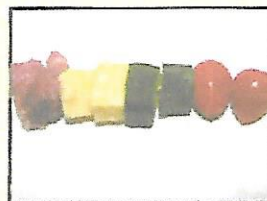

7. If step 1 in the recipe is followed exactly, what will the kebabs look like?

(B)

(D)

8. In the recipe for kebabs, what is the purpose of the pastry brush?

- (A) to apply the oil onto the grill
- (B) to take the burnt bits off the kebabs
- (C) to mix the honey and the soy sauce
- (D) to spread the sauce onto the kebabs

Wobbly fruit jelly pots

This dessert is delicious and easy to make!

Makes 4 jelly pots

Ask an adult to help you.

Ingredients

- 1 tablespoon gelatine
- 1½ cups orange juice
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 cup mixed fresh fruit, chopped
- ice-cream, to serve

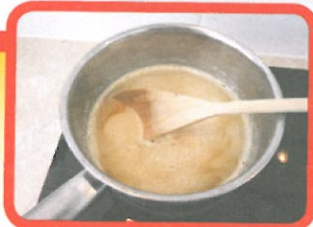

Equipment

- measuring jug, cups and spoons
- bowl
- saucepan
- stirring spoon
- 4 serving glasses

Instructions

1. Put the gelatine in a bowl. Pour some of the orange juice over the top to cover the gelatine. Leave for 5 minutes.

2. Put the gelatine mixture in a saucepan. Add sugar and the rest of the orange juice to the gelatine mixture. Place the saucepan over medium heat and bring to the boil. Stir occasionally until the gelatine and sugar are dissolved completely.

3. Take the saucepan off the heat. Leave it to cool until the mixture is at room temperature. Divide the fresh fruit between the 4 glasses. Pour the jelly mixture over the top. Put the glasses in the refrigerator for 1 hour or until set. Serve with ice-cream.

It's now time to gobble up the wobbly fruit jelly pots!

9. 'This dessert is delicious and easy to make!'

Why is this sentence included in the recipe for jelly pots?

- (A) to create interest
- (B) to ask a question
- (C) to give a direction
- (D) to explain information

10. Look at step 3 in the recipe for jelly pots. The glasses must be put in the refrigerator so that

- (A) the fruit does not spoil.
- (B) the mixture becomes firm.
- (C) the gelatine mixes properly.
- (D) the ice-cream does not melt.

11. Alliteration is the repetition of the same sound at the beginning of words.

Which of the following is an example of alliteration?

- (A) 'These kebabs taste as good as they look!'
- (B) 'chopping board'
- (C) 'chew and chomp'
- (D) 'wobbly fruit jelly pots!'

How we compare

Animals, including humans, are unique and amazing creatures. We all possess our own special ability to survive and adapt to the world in which we live. What would happen if we humans tested our capabilities against those of other animals on Earth? How would we compare?

Vision

How far?

Humans with normal vision can read an eye chart from a distance of six metres. Birds of prey such as the wedge-tailed eagle can spot dinner from more than one kilometre away.

Night vision

Animals such as cats, dogs and most nocturnal species have a special reflective layer on their eyes called the tapetum lucidum which helps them to see at night. This is why you can see a cat's eyes shining in the dark. Humans don't have this special membrane and therefore don't have good night vision.

Strength

Weight-lifting

If you measure strength as the amount of weight an animal can carry compared to its own weight, then the strongest land species are actually insects. The rhinoceros beetle, for example, can carry objects on its back that are up to 850 times heavier than itself. That's the same as a human lifting the average brick house!

Kapow!

The mantis shrimp's kick moves at a speed of 23 metres per second and accelerates 8 000 times faster than gravity. The force of the kick is the most powerful on Earth and makes the mantis shrimp the deadliest creature in the ocean, if you're a sea snail.

Rhinoceros beetle

Mantis shrimp

Survival skills

Insulation

Unlike polar bears, humans do not have fur or special fat to keep them warm and therefore they become vulnerable in very cold conditions. When the body loses more heat than it can produce, hypothermia sets in. The symptoms include shivering and slow breathing. At worst, it could lead to death.

20. What is the purpose of these subheadings in the text: 'Vision', 'Strength' and 'Survival skills'?
- (A) to explain earlier ideas
 - (B) to provide scientific names
 - (C) to organise the information
 - (D) to stress that the information is accurate
21. The term 'tapetum lucidum' is the name for
- (A) animals' eyes.
 - (B) an eye membrane.
 - (C) a nocturnal species.
 - (D) the power to see at night.
22. According to the text, what is remarkable about the mantis shrimp's kick?
- (A) how often the shrimp kicks
 - (B) the force of the shrimp's kick
 - (C) what type of snails the shrimp can kill
 - (D) the distance that the shrimp's leg can reach
23. What is the text underneath each photograph called?
- (A) caption (B) notice (C) glossary (D) headline
24. According to the text, polar bears have protection from hypothermia because of their
- (A) ability to move around slowly.
 - (B) capacity to lose body heat.
 - (C) natural body covering.
 - (D) breathing patterns.
25. What is being compared in the text?
- (A) various kinds of animal ability
 - (B) how different animals escape from danger
 - (C) human abilities to the abilities of other animals
 - (D) water-based and land-based species of animals

MY SHADOW

I have a little shadow that goes in and out with me,
And what can be the use of him is more than I can see.
He is very, very like me from the heels up to the head;
And I see him jump before me, when I jump into my bed.

The funniest thing about him is the way he likes to grow—
Not at all like proper children, which is always very slow;
For he sometimes shoots up taller like an india-rubber ball,
And he sometimes gets so little that there's none of him at all.

He hasn't got a notion of how children ought to play,
And can only make a fool of me in every sort of way.
He stays so close beside me, he's a coward you can see;
I'd think shame to stick to nursie* as that shadow sticks to me!

One morning, very early, before the sun was up,
I rose and found the shining dew on every buttercup;
But my lazy little shadow, like an arrant sleepy-head,
Had stayed at home behind me and was fast asleep in bed.

Robert Louis Stevenson

*a nanny

- (A) a rule
 - (B) a plan
 - (C) an idea
 - (D) a belief
29. The line 'And can only make a fool of me' suggests that the poet thought the shadow made him
- (A) feel guilty.
 - (B) look ridiculous.
 - (C) appear childish.
 - (D) seem confused.
30. The poet believes the shadow is different to children because
- (A) it scares him.
 - (B) it wakes up early.
 - (C) it makes him laugh.
 - (D) it grows very quickly.
31. The poet writes about the shadow in a _____ way.
- (A) playful
 - (B) fearful
 - (C) hopeful
 - (D) respectful

Make a wish

Carl sat chewing, his glasses balanced on the very tip of his nose. He was concentrating very hard. Cass watched fascinated. One more chew and they would slip off. 'Well,' Carl lifted his head and his glasses slid back into place, 'I don't know if we can do anything more, Cass. If adults can't stop them, what can we do?'

The twins ate in silence, watching the sun slip behind the distant skyline, silhouetting the tall faceless office blocks that poked out of a shifting yellow haze. The din of the city traffic barely reached them. It mingled with the warm shushing sound of the surrounding park.

The Trumper Tree rose above them, majestic and tall, its twisted branches and gnarled trunk swirling in strange patterns. It looked as if it reached into the sky forever.

'I'm going to save a leaf from the Trumper Tree as a memento,' said Cass and she picked up a fallen leaf. 'Here's one for you,' and she handed it to Carl. He was very quiet. The air became heavy and still. The park seemed to be holding its breath. 'Let's make a wish, a wish to make things right,' whispered Cass.

'I don't believe in wishes,' was Carl's reply, but he didn't push the leaf away; he placed it carefully in his pocket.

Around them the valley waited, motionless and silent. Cass shivered. 'I feel strange, eerie. I can almost hear the tree speaking to me.'

'What am I supposed to listen for?'

'Quiet! Can't you hear? There's a sound in the leaves, a sort of stirring, a movement, a rustling.'

'And for your next trick there'll be gnomes in the grass.' Carl was not impressed.

Cass was listening intently. 'It's saying that now is the time, now is special, if we wish now something important will happen.'

'And pigs might fly. Come on Cass, it's time we went home.'

'Please let's try one wish now. Come on Carl, please ...!'

'Oh, all right. Just one, then we must go or Mum and Dad will be late for that meeting.'

'Let's put our arms around the tree and wish hard for something to save it.'

32. What was Carl doing in the first paragraph?
- (A) arguing with his sister
 - (B) hiding from his parents
 - (C) quickly finishing a big meal
 - (D) thinking deeply about a problem
33. The story is set in
- (A) a park.
 - (B) a building.
 - (C) a city street.
 - (D) a sports field.
34. In the second paragraph, the words 'silhouetting the tall faceless office blocks' refer to the effect of the
- (A) sun. (B) tree. (C) haze. (D) skyline.
35. Personification is a type of description that gives human qualities to something which is not human.
- Which quotation uses personification?
- (A) 'The twins ate in silence'
 - (B) 'The park seemed to be holding its breath.'
 - (C) 'There's a sound in the leaves'
 - (D) 'And pigs might fly.'
36. In the third paragraph, why does the writer describe the Trumper Tree as having a 'gnarled trunk swirling in strange patterns'?
- (A) to emphasise how bright the sun is
 - (B) to create a mysterious atmosphere
 - (C) to make a comparison with city buildings
 - (D) to highlight the colour of its leaves and branches
37. Cass gave a leaf to Carl because
- (A) she planned to show him a trick.
 - (B) she wanted him to keep it as a souvenir.
 - (C) she was sharing her love of nature with him.
 - (D) she knew that his hobby was collecting small things.
38. Which quotation shows that Carl would follow Cass and make a wish?
- (A) 'He was very quiet.'
 - (B) 'What am I supposed to listen for?'
 - (C) 'Come on Cass, it's time we went home.'
 - (D) 'Just one, then we must go'
39. Which word best describes Cass?
- (A) logical
 - (B) efficient
 - (C) reckless
 - (D) persistent

Keyboard instruments

Compared to percussion, wind and stringed instruments, keyboard instruments are a fairly recent invention, dating back only about a thousand years. Through a set of levers inside the instrument, each key can produce a precise note—all the player has to do is press the key. The kind of sound that results depends on the instrument. With a piano, the keys trigger hammers that strike a set of tuned strings. With an organ, the keys release air into a set of organ pipes, each sounding a different note. The advantage of keyboard instruments is that you can use all ten fingers (and even your feet) at the same time and so produce a rich musical effect from a single instrument.

Clavichord and harpsichord

The clavichord was one of the first keyboard instruments. It was developed in the 1300s. Each key acted like a seesaw. When a key was pressed, the other end rose up to hit one of the strings which were arranged over a sound box.

While the earlier clavichord had to be set on a table, the harpsichord had its own legs. It was developed after the 1500s from other similar instruments such as the virginal and the spinet. The big difference with all these is that the strings are not struck, but plucked by a plectrum or 'jack' which is pushed past the string when a key is pressed. Harpsichords were very popular in the 18th century. The famous composer Mozart learned to play the harpsichord as a child, astounding admiring audiences as he toured Europe from the age of six.

Playing the piano

The full name of the piano is pianoforte, which means 'soft-loud' in Italian. It is so called because it can be played loudly or softly by altering pressure on the keys and by using the foot pedals. Invented in the early 1700s, the piano soon became more popular than the harpsichord which gave players little opportunity to add 'expression' to their playing. Unlike the harpsichord, a piano's strings are not plucked, but struck with a 'hammer'. The metal strings are stretched across a massive metal frame which may be set flat, as in a grand piano, or vertically, as in the more common upright piano. The hammers are operated by a system of levers attached to the keys.

40. 'With a piano, the keys trigger hammers that strike a set of tuned strings. With an organ, the keys release air into a set of organ pipes, each sounding a different note.'

Which connecting word can be used to join these two sentences without changing the intended meaning?

- (A) since
 - (B) because
 - (C) whereas
 - (D) therefore
41. A clavichord key is compared to a seesaw because
- (A) the key is also made out of wood.
 - (B) the key has a similar shape to the seesaw.
 - (C) the key needs some weight at both ends to work.
 - (D) the key needs downward pressure on one end to make the other end rise.
42. What is one difference between a piano and a harpsichord?
- (A) A piano stands on its own legs.
 - (B) The strings on a piano are struck, rather than plucked.
 - (C) The strings on a piano are struck from above, not below.
 - (D) A musician can play several notes at the same time on a piano.
43. Which characteristic is common to all the keyboard instruments described in the text?
- (A) They all use a set of levers.
 - (B) They all make music with strings.
 - (C) The player must use both hands and feet.
 - (D) The player can adjust the volume of the music.
44. According to the text, why did the piano become more popular than the harpsichord?
- (A) The piano had the same volume regardless of how the keys were pressed.
 - (B) Piano players could choose between a grand or an upright piano.
 - (C) Piano music could be played to a larger audience.
 - (D) The piano was better able to create mood.
45. The purpose of this text is to
- (A) make a judgement.
 - (B) narrate and recount.
 - (C) describe and explain.
 - (D) argue a point of view.
