

Argument

Your local district wants to build bicycle paths so people can ride their bicycles safely. However, many people believe the money should be spent on improving roads for cars because more people use cars than bicycles.

WRITING TASK

Should your local district spend money building bicycle paths?

Your task is to write a letter to the planner for your local district. You should either argue for OR argue against building bicycle paths in your local area.

Here are some ideas to think about before starting your planning. You may wish to use these as well as your own ideas. Your writing should convince the reader to agree with you.

FOR

- bicycle paths are safer than roads
- bicycles cause less pollution

OR

AGAINST

- more families use cars, not bicycles
- cars are safer than bicycles

HINTS

- Use the planning time to organise your ideas.
- Stay on the topic: Should your local district spend money building bicycle paths?
- Begin your writing with an introduction that tells the reader your point of view.
- Provide arguments to support your point of view.
- Finish your writing with a conclusion that sums up your arguments.
- Write different types of sentences. Make sure your sentences are correct.
- Pay attention to spelling and punctuation.
- Use the time at the end of the task to check and improve your writing.
